

THE OFF SEASON

Set your inner troubadour's love poem to music!

Let the seeds of your imagination be nurtured by Australian fine music composer Stephen Cronin with an introduction to the art of setting words to music, regardless of your current skills. These complimentary hour-long one-on-one workshops will be held in the dedicated art and studio space adjacent to your accommodation at DashWu Steading.

This offer is available to accommodation bookings at DashWu Steading between June 1 and August 31, 2024. Enter the coupon code "Off Season" when booking. Minimum booking is three nights to include one session; five or more nights come with two sessions. All materials will be provided. Each session is valued at $150, non-transferrable and must be taken during your stay.

About the composer...

A significant figure among Australia's art music composers Stephen Cronin was a long time faculty member at Queensland Conservatorium Griffith University until he relocated to Tasmania in 2020.

Stephen's works reflect his interest in literary and narrative themes and have been performed and commissioned by leading Australian and overseas groups including various orchestras, Duo Contemporain, Octomania, The Seymour Group, Synergy and The Song Company.

The recipient of many prizes, Stephen received the prestigious Paul Lowin Award for his cycle, House Songs, settings of poems by New York poet Leon Waller. Having explored diverse musical practices throughout his career, Stephen is widely commissioned and has provided works at the invitation of leading Australian and overseas ensembles. Recordings of Stephen's music appear on Globe, Tall Poppies, Z.o.o, ABC Classics, Divine Art, Sunset Music, VoxAustralis, Innaminka, Anthology of Australian Music, Vienna Modern Masters and other independent releases.
